

What are you thinking? More consolidated ownership helps democracy. At what point does deregulation allow survival of the largest and most powerful? I think you've arrived at that point. I oppose more media consolidation and will vote to retain the current ownership rules in the next election. Democracy is apparently for sale?